John Michael Manard Returned to Lansing Correctional Facility

News Release #13

Thursday, March 2, 2006

Lansing Correctional Facility Warden David R. McKune announced tonight that escapee John Michael Manard was returned to the Lansing Correctional Facility at approximately 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 2, 2006. Manard will be held in the Administrative Segregation Unit of the Lansing Correctional Facility pending court proceedings in Leavenworth County District Court on a charge of Aggravated Escape from Custody.

Three Corrections Officers from Lansing Correctional Facility who have been specially trained in prisoner transport left Kansas on Wednesday, March 1, 2006 and arrived in Chattanooga, Tennessee Wednesday evening. Manard was released to their custody at approximately 7:00 a.m. Thursday, March 2, 2006 for the 11 hour return trip to Kansas.

There were no problems or incidents during the return of John Manard to the Lansing Correctional Facility.
